Abstract of the Disclosure

A data sort method, apparatus, and program to receive a character string of sort key items specified as keys of a data sort process, generate an automaton corresponding to a record whose final transition state corresponds to the character string, determine the order specified by the character string by scanning the automaton, and determine the order of the records corresponding to the character string.